MATTHEW SCOBY McCURDY

After ten days of alternating hope and depression the community is saddened by the death of Mr. McCurdy, the oldest member of the Phillips faculty, which occurred on Thursday.

Mr. McCurdy was hit by an automobile on Sunday night, February 6th, and lingered till early evening, February 16th. All measures for his restoration to health were taken by Dr. Charles E. Abbott and by his son, Dr. Sidney McCurdy.

Matthew Scoby McCurdy, son of Matthew and Esther Talcott (Gregory) McCurdy, was born May 21, 1849 at Dunbarton, N. H.

His preparatory instruction was at St. Johnsbury Academy, Vermont, where he graduated in 1869 and immediately entered Dartmouth College. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and received his diploma from the college in 1873. Among his classmates were Rev. Dr. Clark, founder of Christian Endeavor, Dr. George Gates, President of Fisk University, Professor Henry M. Paul, the distinguished astronomer, Rev. Dr. Pettie, Japanese missionary and Professor John H. Wright of Harvard.

He came to Phillips in the fall of 1873 in the opening year of Dr. Bancroft's principalship as a teacher in the English Department and as instructor of gymnastics.

August 15, 1876 he was married in East St. Johnsbury, Vt., to Miss Lydia Morrill, youngest daughter of the late Hon. Calvin Morrill of St. Johnsbury, Vermont. Three sons have been born to them, Robert Morrill, a Harvard graduate of 1900, a librarian connected with Doubleday, Page and Company of Garden City, Long Island, N. Y.; Sidney Morrill, of the Dartmouth class

COPLEY

"What the Public Wants" at the Copley Theatre will be followed by "Jelf's," which will then be given its first production on the American stage. Its author is Horace Annesley Vachell, a popular English dramatist and novelist, and in "Jelf's" he tells a very timely story of financial sensation not unlike that created by the notorious Ponzi of local fame. The title of the play comes from the family name of its leading personages. Like the famous Coutts Bank, known to all transatlantic American travellers, "Jelf's" is a private bank in London.

The four acts of "Jelf's" are set in two scenes, the first and the fourth act being in the manager's offices of the bank, the second and third acts being in the garden of Richard Jelf's country house at Shepperton-on-Thames. At the opening of the play, Richard Jelf has just come into control of the bank by inheritance, but he has had no preparation for the business, having only recently returned from California, where he has been the prosperous proprietor of a ranch, and has become imbued with a certain amount of the hustling American spirit. He knows nothing about banking, but he is determined to learn all there is to know of the business. It is a cheerful play, with not a glimpse of gloom in it. In "Jelf's" we get away from the Eternal Triangle and breathe the fresh air of life, love and comedy.

Beginning with the opening episodes at the bank in Fleet Street, London, which are interspersed with considerable relevant comedy, the action of the play progresses through one powerful situation after another, Richard Jelf revealing himself as an able man when he is confronted with a crisis and is compelled to fight his own business and personal battles alone. He is one man against many during a considerable portion of the play, and he succeeds in winning his way to success in business and love through sheer intellectual force and by word of character.

"Jelf's" will be staged at the Copley Theatre under the personal direction of Henry Jewett, and his entire company will be in the cast.

Wilton, N. H., stands as the honor municipality of New England in per capita sales of United States Treasury savings securities during the past twelve months as a result of a report made today by Postmaster J. R. Killikelly to the Savings Division, First Federal Reserve District, headquarters in the Federal Building, Boston. There have reached F. C. Ayres, Government director, many excellent reports for the year but the one from Mr. Killikelly leads all of them.

The sales of War Savings and Thrift Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates amounted to an average of $6.35 for every person among the 1400 inhabitants of Wilton. What this average would mean for the larger centres of population in New England is shown by the fact that if Boston should equal this per capita it would have sales totalling $1,749,311.05; Springfield, $821,294.30; Hartford, $876,528.60; Manchester, N. H., $196,370; Providence, $1,727,200 (on a basis of 272,000 population); Portland, $439,362.60 and Burlington, Vt., $144,616.65.

The monthly sales in Wilton were as follows: $1541.54, $1930.45, $587.25, $107.11, $1004.80, $368.48, $136.12, $264.73, $872.55, $114.32 and $125.21; total for the past twelve months $8885.85.

Meeting of Baptist Mission Circle

On the afternoon of February 10th, fourteen ladies of the Baptist Ladies' Mission Circle gathered at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Morse to consider the lesson from the study book. Reports were read from two southern schools to which donations of clothing were sent in the fall. Great appreciation was expressed by both.

After business reports were read, the ladies turned to that remarkable chapter concerning Bible travels and the thirst of the people for Gospel truth. Millions of Bibles have been distributed by the British and Foreign Bible society and other Bible societies. Even in wretchedly poor sections, people pressed forward to buy the Book, one blind beggar saying, "I would grieve less

Yale Fresh Win at Swimming Meet

Yale Freshmen won the swimming meet from Andover Saturday afternoon and three of Coach Sutherland's last year's team, Malcolm Frost, York Colgate, played a prominent part in the 37-16 victory.

The outstanding feature of the week was the smashing of the pool record in the plunge, Neil C. Stilwell of Andover on his second trial traversing the seventy-five feet from end to end within the minute time allowance. On his first attempt he had gone sixty-five feet when Coach Sutherland ordered him to come up as he was traveling too slowly for a record. It was his first appearance with the team this year and he was given a great reception by the student body which crowded the pool and cheered the team led by "Willie" Wingate. The record in the plunge was held by Capt. John M. P. Anderson and last year he floated 73 ft., 6 in.

Yale Fresh relay team which included Frost, York and Colgate of Andover's last year relay won after a stiff fight Colgate finishing less than three feet ahead of Capt. Clark of Andover. The New Haven youngsters also cleaned up in the dive and 220-yards and won first in the 50-yard dash. The 220 was the closest which ever took place in the pool and in spite of the long grind three of the swimmers were less than six feet apart at the finish.

The 100-yard dash was the race of the afternoon and in finishing first, Draper of Andover came within a second of tying Tom Fitzgerald's record of one minute flat. It was a hummer all the way, the Andover swimmer drawing ahead of Colgate on the third lap and just managed to keep a two-foot lead to the finish.

Besides swimming on the winning relay which gave his team an eight point lead at the start, Malcolm Frost captured second place in the fancy diving competition.

The summary:
Relay—Won by Yale Fresh (Frost, York, Silk, Colgate); Andover (Hapgood, F. Wingate, Draper, Clark.) Time 1 min., 48 sec.

Dive—Won by MacCallum, Yale Fresh; second, Frost, Yale Fresh; third, Ferguson, Andover.

50-yard—Won by Morgan, Yale Fresh; second, Hapgood, Andover; third, Cleveland, Yale Fresh. Time: 27 1/5 sec.

220-yards—Won by Ledyard, Yale Fresh; second, Stewart, Yale Fresh; Clark, Andover. Time: 2 min., 47 3/5 sec.

Plunge—Won by Stilwell, Andover, 75 ft.; second, Silk, Yale Fresh, 59 ft.; Stern, Andover, 54 1/2 ft. New record.

100-yard—Won by Draper, Andover; second, Colgate, Yale Fresh; third, Trepel, Yale Fresh. Time: 1 min., 1 sec.

Andover Wins Track Meet

If Coach Shephard of Andover's track team has all the material which took part in the dual meet with Tech Fresh, available when the Blue meets Exeter next June, an Andover victory seems assured. Saturday afternoon his pupils ran away from the M. I. T. youngsters and won 55 1-2 to 16 1-2, the Boston athletes placing first in but one event, the 50-yard dash when Rowe broke the tape a foot ahead of Willie Wingate of Andover in 5 4-5 sec. Rowe got the advantage at the start but Wingate gained but could not quite get level with the Tech sprinter.

Andover made a runaway of all the other events and scored nine points in the pole vault which Carpenter of Andover won at 10 ft., 6 in., remarkable work for indoors. Stevenson of Andover cleared the bar in the high jump at 5 ft., 6 in. which is good going on a gym floor. Cox of Andover sent the shot 42 ft., 10 in. for first place and Eddie Wolfe took second with an even 41 ft.

The track events were held on the outdoor board track and the 300-yd. dash between MacInnes of Andover and Tench of M. I. T., furnished the thrills. Tench qualified by defeating Capt. Bob Allen in the trials in a scorching race, the diminutive Tech runner refusing to allow the Andover captain to pass him. In the finals Tench had the pole and at once took the lead. He kept ahead of MacInnes by about two yards on the first lap and looked a winner. On the second lap, however, MacInnes drew level with Tench and side by side they raced for the finish. Tench kept crowding the Andover man up the boards and it did not seem possible that MacInnes could win. By a desperate effort, however, he just managed to forge ahead at the finish and broke the tape three inches in the lead. So far up the boards was he that after crossing the finish line he took a dive headlong into the snow drifts. It was a wonderful finish to a great race.

There was little competition in the other events, Andover men winning as they pleased in 600, 1000-yd. and mile runs. McNeil and Grant led in the mile, Screven and Bateman in the 1000 and Page in the 600-yd. run. Tech men led in all these races at the start but the Andover men had the strength and won easily. McNeil lapped some of the runners in the mile and Screven was far ahead of all others at the finish of the 1000. Page also ran a beautiful race in the 600 and passed Dorety of Tech on the last time around.

The Basketball Team Wins

Coach Roth's basketball team won from Worcester academy Saturday afternoon in the Borden gymnasium, after being down two points in the first half. The Blue came back strong and with Cox at centre played a whirlwind game and came off victors 37-32. The Andover defense was strong in the second period and time and again Dan Allen broke up the Worcester attack and spoiled many attempts at baskets.

Capt. Riley of Andover and Giles of Worcester were the individual stars of the game. While the former missed many passes in the second half near the goal he scored twenty-one points and he and Cox kept Andover in the lead in the second period, Cox being very dangerous near the basket. Giles of Worcester totaled twenty points and played a star game.

ONCE TO

WOMAN

ONCE in every woman's life comes a certain great moment. Once in her lifetime something comes to her on which her whole future depends. It has come—or will surely come to you, just as it came to Aurora Meredith. What do you think it is? You'll know when you see splendid Dorothy Phillips, the star of "The Heart of Humanity" and "The Right to Happiness" play that part in a picture that every woman in the world will understand. A picture for which a whole opera was produced in which the players sang just as they sing in the mighty stage of the Metropolitan—a dramatic production in which the social leaders of a great western city acted as the "extras"—a marvelous love story that you'll never forget. See it now. Don't miss it. Remember—"Once to Every Woman."

Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 21-22

The game was not quite as interesting as a week ago against Harvard Fresh and the many fouls called spoiled the contest from the spectators' point of view. Worcester had a strong team and it was their second defeat of the season, Cushing winning by one point in two overtime periods.

Why Pietro Yon Puts "Snap" in Bach

Pietro Yon had finished playing Bach's "A minor Prelude and Fugue" at a recital in Kansas City (Independence Boulevard Christian Church). The audience relaxed from an attitude of breathless tension to one of surprise and joyful approbation. Yes, it was Bach they had just heard, but somehow, it was a new Bach!

After the performance a reporter for the Kansas City Times asked the maestro if he could describe his predominant thought and feeling while playing Bach. "Wella," said Pietro, with a broad smile, "whenever I play Bach, I cannot help think 'Bach must have had a good deal of fun in his life.' " "But what influence has that upon your playing?" rejoined the reporter.

"Wella, he had twenty-five children! I have one, very little he is, for I am not marry a year; but if Bach had twenty-five times as much fun as I had thinking about that little boy of mine, his music could not be so sad as mosta people play it.

"When I first practice Bach, I don't like him. Often I wonder why zat Bach he ever was born. Dis is the way his music go: do, di dum, da. . . Then one day I attend a concert in which ze great Mahler conduct this same Prelude and Fugue I am play tonight. I listen and I tink: This Bach of Mahler's he did have some fun. How he play it? So: did, jid, da, dit — did, id da, git.

"Don't you see, Mahler knew about those twenty-five children. His heart tell him how ze heart of a man must sing if he is happy. Oh! it was great music. I tried it on my organ; many times I try it, but my organ will not come after me, so fast I go. I am in despair! but I work away. Then, after I have thought of those twenty-five children and how that same happiness would sound on the organ, I play Bach in public. What you think happen? All those musician, critic, student, say it is a new Bach; that at last he is alive.

"So you see the good of those twenty-five children."

METHUEN

Monday, February 14—A largely attended meeting of citizens was held in Nevins' Memorial hall, Thursday evening when Alfred D. Chandler of Brookline, a Boston lawyer and father of the representative form of town government explained in a very comprehensive way the working of the representative form as applied to the town of Brookline. He cited instances of cities which from disaster or other causes had adopted a commission form of government for a time. He answered several questions relative to town government. Charles W. Mann presided and introduced the speaker of the evening. Dr. Robert Farquhar led in community singing.

NORTH ANDOVER

Monday, February 14—At a monthly meeting of the overseers of the poor, held Thursday night in the selectmen's office, Chairman Fred Leach, presiding, David Webb was appointed superintendent and Mrs. Webb, matron of the Town Home for a year, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George L. Barker and Miss Lettie M. Barker. The appointees begin the duties of their respective positions on March 1st. The Johnson High school lunchroom furnished under the supervision of the Nursing committee of the Red Cross in conjunction with the school board, had a very successful opening Thursday. The menu which will be more varied as the work progresses, consisted of soup, sandwiches, cocoa, milk and fruit.

LAWRENCE

Monday, February 14—Stanley's-on-the-Merrimack, formerly owned by Frank J. Stanley and others of this city, passed into the hands of George O'Brien of New Haven, Conn., this week. The resort was purchased some time ago by Richard A. Doyle of the John J. Hurley Realty Company. The purchase price is said to have been in the vicinity of $13000. From the experimental stage at one or two small schools last recess when milk was served children at recess time the milk lunch movement has spread so quickly through the local school system that milk dealers estimate that almost 6,000 children are being given milk each morning at recess time. Under the plan, the child brings five cents a day and at recess is given a separate half pint bottle of milk. With the milk are given a few crackers of known food value. From time to time, the crackers are varied but the milk is always given in the same quantity. Another part of the plan is to discourage children from buying as much candy or gum as formerly. Stress is laid upon the child sacrificing something to save money for the milk. Otherwise money for the milk simply becomes an additional expense. Lawrence's first police woman will shortly be appointed by Alderman Peter Carr. He placed the sum of $1300 in his 1921 estimate submitted to Mayor White, Monday, to allow for the appointment of a police woman. Examinations were held here and in Boston several months ago, and several local women took the tests. The decision to make the appointment came as a result of the personal request of delegations representing several local women's organizations, and as a result of investigations by Alderman Carr, who is of the belief that there is considerable routine police work which a woman can accomplish to better advantage than a man. A total amount of $683,114.71 to conduct the Department of Public Safety during the year of 1921, was requested by Alderman Peter Carr in the estimate of appropriations needed, which he submitted to Mayor White, Monday. The estimate for the Police Department is $288,783.85, while the amount asked for the Fire Department is $394,330.86. The total estimate for the Public Safety Department is approximately $100,000 greater than the total amount spent in 1920. The total expenditures in the Police Department last year were $253,492.28. The estimate submitted this year explains that the increase is accounted for in the raise in wages granted last May. The total amount spent in the Fire Department, including the several associate branches under the one head, was $323,886.04, bringing the total for the year of 1921 in the Public Safety Department up to $579,378.32.

Synthetic Flavors

There is danger that we may soon forget the taste of fruit and flavors in general. In the last few years chemistry has made marvelous progress in manufacturing synthetic flavors. It is much cheaper to manufacture the flavor of a peach or an orange than to grow the real original fruit. Since we eat preserved fruits often than the real fruit, we are in danger of acquiring a taste of an artificial flavor. Another generation, it is prophesied, will object to the flavor of a peach or a pear as being unnatural. An interesting test has recently been made by analyzing strawberry jam. It was found to contain apples synthetically flavored, while the seeds when analyzed turned out to be clover. Boys' Life for February.

Vesper Service at Free Church

The Music Committee of the Free Church considers itself very fortunate in securing the services of the Shepard Memorial Quartette for the vesper service on March 6th. This quartette takes its name from two years' service at the Shepard Memorial church, Cambridge, and consists of the following members: Mrs. Lora May Lampert, soprano; Miss Claramonde Thompson, contralto; Charles W. Ellis, tenor; Loriston Stockwell, basso.

At the present time all are soloists engaged by various churches in the vicinity of Boston: Mrs. Lampert at the Temple Adath Israel, Miss Thompson at the First Unitarian church, Milton; Mr. Stockwell at the First Unitarian Church, Lynn.

Mr. Ellis is soloist at the Wellesley Hills Congregational Church and is known to Andover people, having sung at the Free church last Sunday evening.

The quartette has taken the leading parts in the "Stabat Mater" with the Medford Choral society and orchestra, and in the opera, "Martha" with the Lynn Choral society and orchestra.

Further particulars, including program, will be announced at a later date.

Former Andover Boy Honored

Philip W. Foster, formerly of this town, but now of Cambridge, was signally honored by the city planning commission of Cleveland, Ohio, when he was awarded the cash prize of $500 for the best suggestion for the use of an abandoned cemetery in the downtown section of Cleveland. There were 206 competitors. Mr. Foster is a landscape architect, associate of John Nolen, city planner, Cambridge, and it is noteworthy that Frank J. Nulvihill of the same office received honorable mention.

The features of the winning design are the extension of Carnegie avenue along Summer avenue, cutting through the cemetery to meet Eagle avenue at East Ninth street, so that the greatest economy in use of land is affected; the location of a tall shaft at the intersection of the axis of Carnegie and Eagle avenues, if extended into the property; and the development of the rest of the cemetery into a breathing space, or "in-town" park. There is provision for a children's playground in one section.

Mr. Foster, son of George W. Foster, was born in Andover and received his education in the public schools of the town and at Phillips academy. He has been very successful as a landscape architect and his plans for improvements of city and town properties have won prizes on several occasions.

Our Congregational Job Around the World

Meetings of great interest and importance to Congregationalists of this region are to be held in the Lawrence Street Congregational Church, Lawrence next Wednesday under the leadership of Secretary D. Brewer Eddy of the American Board, Secretary F. E. Enrich of the Mass. Home Missionary Society and Rev. C. E. White of the Boston Office of the "Congregational World Movement."

The afternoon session at 3.30 o'clock will be devoted chiefly to a conference of clergymen and lay delegates upon the aims, needs and methods of the "Congregational World Movement" which the denomination has undertaken. All Congregationalists of Lawrence and vicinity are urged to attend the evening service at 7.30 o'clock when an illustrated lecture upon "Our Congregational Job around the World" will be given by Rev. C. E. White and addresses will be made by the Secretaries.

Free Church Notes

An illustrated lecture on Russia will be given Sunday evening at the Free Church by Richard O. Atkinson of Boston. Mr. Atkinson was with the Russian Army at the front for several months doing propaganda work for the allies. He was in Petrograd and Moscow when both of these cities were captured by the Bolsheviks and took many pictures at the frequent risk of life. He brings a vivid story and some extraordinary pictures which he has had made into lantern slides. A personal friend of Mr. Wheelock's, he has consented to give his lecture without charge to the public of Andover. It affords, therefore, a splendid opportunity to get first-hand information about the great country of Russia of which we know so little.

The Fathers' and Sons' Banquet will take place Tuesday evening, February 22. A supper prepared by the women of the church will be served at six o'clock, after which there will be an entertainment. Rev. Benjamin A. Wilcott, D.D., pastor of the Immanuel-Walnut Avenue Congregational Church, Boston and director of Camp Andover will be the speaker of the evening.

Christ Church Notes

The second evening service of the Lenten series will come on Sunday night at 7.30 o'clock. It is a disappointment to find that the train service makes it impossible for John E. Williams, the tenor soloist at Emmanuel church, Boston, to be present on the twentieth. On Sunday night it is expected that Arthur Swenson and James Schofield will be the soloists. The address will be a patriotic one; "George Washington, Citizen and Churchman."

At the services on Friday afternoon, the rector is speaking briefly on missionary topics. The first was "How the Church Saved Civilization in the Middle Ages." To-day the subject will be, "The Beginning of Modern Missions." These services follow the regular meetings of the Woman's Guild and are held in the church.

The talk which Mrs. Sterling gave the Woman's Guild revealed the inestimable value of the Church Periodical club. It is doing a great work in keeping lonely lives interested and brightened. Her work reaches out into missionary fields at home and abroad. Your magazines will be of great help if you will send them on. Ask the Guild president.

Matthew S. McCurdy

"Dear old Mac". In those words thousands of boys have expressed their affection for one of the members of Phillips faculty who was more than a teacher, even more than a friend. The writer was walking along the street in Boston yesterday, and a gentleman he had not seen for a number of years stepped up to him, and said he had just noticed that "dear old Mac" had gone. Everywhere one hears expressions of a love and affection that evidence what a wonderful hold Matthew S. McCurdy had upon the students with whom he came in contact at Phillips Academy.

It was not alone at Phillips where Mr. McCurdy made his friendships, nor was it confined to his activities as a teacher where his good qualities were exclusively known. He was a citizen of the very best kind. He thought straight, with his views grounded as firmly upon sound principles as are fixed the hills of his native State. He was interested in Andover, in its institutions of business as well as of learning, in its progress as a community of citizens, and in its purposes as a long established leading New England town. The town will miss Mr. McCurdy hardly less than will the great educational institution on the hill. What a wonderful memory it is for the wife who is left, and for the sons to follow on, that comes down from the long years of patient, tireless, earnest, friendly living of which Professor McCurdy has been an exemplar.

Shawsheen Village

Some of our good friends in Andover are disturbed over the statement that they are organizing in Shawsheen Village for political purposes. We can see nothing to be disturbed about, even if this statement is true, but as a matter of fact we do not believe it is true. If the citizens of Shawsheen Village are organizing for the purpose of developing a community spirit and seeking through that development a recognition of the importance of Shawsheen Village on the part of the entire town, the Townsman is going to express considerable satisfaction over it. Shawsheen Village is having a development that is at once wonderfully attractive, and capable of adding materially to the advantages of the town of Andover. It needs every citizen of the town to have an interest in it, just as the citizens of the town need Shawsheen Village interest in all of the other activities all over the town. If it were big enough to paddle its own way it would not be asking anything from Andover. As a matter of fact even if it were big enough, it is doubtful if it could ever get the distinction it can get from being a part of Andover, rather than apart from Andover.

So, let us all use a good deal of sense in discussing the things that it must have immediately, and the development it must have as the days and the months and the years go by, and the improvements that must come there because of changed conditions, and all the other matters involved in the relation between this single village and the town.

Glee Club Organized

The Andover Glee club was formally organized Tuesday evening at a meeting held in the parish house of the Free church. There was a very good attendance and much enthusiasm was shown.

At the informal meeting held two weeks ago tentative officers were chosen and Thomas Thin, president, was in charge, Tuesday night. The meeting elected the following officers: Thomas Thin, president; Miss Jean E. Dundas, vice president; Alexander Valentine, secretary; David Forbes, treasurer; William Walker, conductor; David C. Leslie, librarian; executive committee, the president and secretary and Margaret Fairweather, Miss Mary Porter and Alfred Robb; music committee, W. Walker, Miss Jean E. Dundas, Miss Mary Caldwell, David Forbes and Alfred Robb.

An informal rehearsal was held and several part songs sung. The music committee will meet and select a number of glee songs by the leading composers. Sullivan and Bishop and others, and regular rehearsals will be started. The next meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday evening in Christ church parish house on account of the Father and Son banquet at the Free church. Many more singers have signified their intention of joining and will be present at the next meeting.

Camp and Auxiliary News

At the last meeting of Walter L. Raymond Camp 111, S. of V., in G. A. R. hall, open house night was held and there was a large attendance. Musical selections were rendered by Wilbur Hammond and an interesting address was given by William Anderson of Jamaica Plains, the S. of V. organizer.

The camp auxiliary observed Lincoln day with a whist and box party in G. A. R. hall which proved very successful and netted a large sum for the treasury. A recitation was given by Annie Kibbee and Wilbur Hammond sang. The prize for the prettiest box was won by Mrs. Eleanor Early.

itself. This very year we are likely to be called upon for quite a good many expenditures, solely for the people of Shawsheen Village, but they should not be granted with the idea that we are giving them to somebody in one part of the town, but rather be granted because they make a section of Andover contribute to the whole town itself through its sectional development and improvement. If they won't so contribute we should hesitate to approve them. The town owes a lot to Mr. Wood for the wonderful interest he has in a section of it. Not all of us will approve of all the things he has done, and probably there are some people in town that will approve of none of the things he has done, but in the analysis of the whole work the town has a right to take a lot of satisfaction in Shawsheen Village.

Editorial Cinders

The general reception of the Governor of the Commonwealth to the citizens is to be held at the State House as usual, Tuesday the twenty-second, Washington's birthday. Sometimes we have fewer people interested in this affair than ought to be, inasmuch as it is practically the only social event to which everybody is invited and at which everybody will find an opportunity to greet the Governor and his wife. Governor Cox has been the State's chief executive only a little more than a month, but he has already put himself among those who rank high as distinguished State officials. His judgment is keen, and clear-cut, his knowledge of State affairs grounded upon long and honorable service, and he is showing an unusual grasp of the problems to be faced in these critical times. The State needs a strong hand, and it is assured that that hand is at the helm, by many of the things that the Governor has done. What a fine way to pass on the word of encouragement by greeting him next Tuesday at the State House.

The merry war between the county and State authorities goes on, but why should it? We have little sympathy with the scrap over the question of who shall take care of the prisoners in the various jails of the State. We have much more sympathy with the problem of how well they shall be cared for, and how the cost of taking care of them shall be reduced to the minimum. We were told not long ago, when the agitators for prohibition were occupying most of the public print, that we would not need any jails after that sort of a Utopia came, but here we are scrapping over jails as never before, as if they were to be with us for the rest of our lives. Now as a matter of fact we believe they are likely to be with us, but let us get them reduced to as near the minimum as they can be, and if it can be worked out so that they will entirely vanish, so much the better. Again we repeat what was said some time ago, that it ought to be possible for county officials to meet the State officials, and to adjust this situation so that the more definitely local problem would have the more definitely local control, while the State work would do less overlapping than it does now.

Pythians to Celebrate Anniversary

Garfield Lodge, K. of P., will celebrate the fifty-seventh anniversary of the founding of the order next Monday evening when the rank of Knight will be conferred.

At the meeting of the lodge Monday evening in Garfield hall plans for the celebration were discussed. A committee will arrange for the entertainment program which will follow the conferring of the third degree. It is hoped that speakers will also add to the evening's celebration. Refreshments will be served.

The order was founded in Washington on February 19, 1864, and has had a remarkable growth. All Knights, whether members of Garfield Lodge, or not, are cordially invited to the anniversary observance.

The annual roll call of the lodge will be held on Monday evening, March 25th.

Whist Party for Endowment Fund

Local alumnae of Mt. Holyoke college gave a very successful whist party in Shawsheen Village hall on Wednesday afternoon. Whist was played at twenty tables and the winners were awarded "Marybuds" packed in gift boxes.

The hall was attractively decorated for the Valentine season with streamers of red and white cupids and hearts.

The sale of lollypop dolls specially designed by Andover artists, chocolate sauce and the "Marybuds" also made by the skillful fingers of an Andover woman, swelled the proceeds to more than $50.00.

The committee in charge of the successful affair was Mrs. Donald W. Carter, chairman; Mrs. Granville K. Cutler, Mrs. Douglas Donald, Miss Delight W. Hall, Miss Jane B. Carpenter, Miss Ruth Mitchell and Mrs. Mary B. Tilton.

Brigham urges all men of the parish to attend the supper of home-cooked food to be served at 6:30, and bring "a son or sons, your own, adopted, step, grand, in-law, or the neighbor's." He also suggests that boys will be furnished on request by telephoning Andover 443.

As Miss Glover entered the room she was showered with rainbow confetti.

Music and games were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess. Miss Glover was wished many years of happy married life by her friends. The date for the wedding has not been set.

Free Church Missionary Meeting

Wednesday afternoon, February 16th the Foreign Missionary Department of the Free church met with Mrs. F. A. Wilson. The history and work of the National Bible Societies, presented by Miss Mary E. Carter and her able assistants, proved to be a lesson topic, entertaining as well as instructive. The program was diversified by humorous readings, one being an account of the creation of the world written in blank verse by a negro, and published in a recent number of the "Atlanta University Bulletin." Music and a social hour followed the program.

Andover Post Won

The Andover Post, American Legion, visited the North Andover post Monday evening, when a tournament in cards, bowling, pool and billiards took place at the North Andover club house. Andover won at whist, bowling and pool while North Andover proved its superiority at billiards. About forty members of the local post took part in the tournament.

Warden Wins Bowling Match

Charles Warden of the Andover five and James Kinnear of the Rockports rolled a special match for a purse of $30 on the Essex street alleys Wednesday evening. Warden winning easily by 70 pins. Warden took the lead and never was headed. Kinnear won only one string, the ninth, when he rolled 91 to Warden's 84. Warden's high string was 120 in the sixth and Kinnear went 102 in the same string.

The scores:
Warden: 99, 95, 100, 90, 94, 120, 87, 93, 84, 92—Total 954.
Kinnear: 81, 94, 79, 87, 90, 102, 84, 92, 91, 84—Total 884.

ADD TEN HOURS OF LEISURE TO YOUR WEEK

Time, a wise man said, is something that can neither be added to nor subtracted from.

YET we can add ten hours, or more, to your week with our Semi-finished Laundry Service and save you money.

This is not the usual laundry service—it is, rather, a special service that we have developed to meet your special washday needs.

We take your entire washing. We cleanse everything without rubbing. By our method soft water and fluffy suds bubble through your clothing much in the same way as they do when you souse and rinse your daintier things in a wash bowl.

Then we dry them, without wringing, in warm pure air, imparting to them the much desired freshness.

All the flat pieces, like bed linen, tablecloths, pillow slips and napkins, we iron beautifully.

The few body pieces we leave for you to iron—but the amount of ironing we leave for you is slight, for our drying process is such that many things can be worn immediately, without ironing.

And all we charge you for this service, by our new prices, is eight cents the pound plus one cent a piece—why not today?

of 1902, a practicing physician in Youngstown, Ohio, and Allan Morrill, Dartmouth, 1909, with the Western Shoshone Agency, Owyhee, Nevada.

In 1892 Mr. McCurdy prepared and published "An Exercise Book in Algebra."

During the school year 1910-11 he, with Mrs. McCurdy spent the year in traveling in Europe. In the school vacations he has gone about extensively, to Washington, to California, on the great lakes to Duluth and a summer trip to England and the Continent.

He had served as deacon in the Seminary church and also in the Phillips Academy church. His life was the school and his recreation was the school sports, from which he was rarely absent.

Funeral services will be held at the Phillips Academy chapel Saturday afternoon at 3.00 o'clock and will be conducted by Dr. Alfred E. Stearns and Rev. Markham W. Stackpole.

cheery contentment with which he welcomed duty and drudgery as joy. He nursed no sore spots in his soul.

Some of us have watched that kindly face in faculty meetings for thirty years and have felt its placid benediction. When "Mac" led us in chapel prayers, we knew we were in the presence of a soul in communion with the Loving Father. His religion was faith that needed not to question.

To few is it given to share with youth a common spirit for so many years. He took the uncontaminated soul of a boy on this his last journey. To youth he gave again the sweetness and light that youth had kept alive in him. His spirit ran its course like a limpid brook, that meets, indeed, with rocks and stones, but glides over them and leaves them clean.

Matthew S. McCurdy, for forty-seven consecutive years an instructor in Phillips Academy, had become so vitally a part of the institution itself that it will be long before we can fully realize that he has been taken from us.

MATTHEW SCOBY McCURDY

For an hour preceding the service, that is between the hours of two and three, the body will lie in state at the Phillips Academy chapel where it may be viewed by those who so desire.

So He giveth His beloved sleep.

No word have we that rises so freely from the heart, when we speak of him, as "beloved." Rarely does man deserve to bear with him on the wings of the eternal morning such acclaim of affection as that which will now find its echoes in every corner of our land.

"Mac" was gentle and generous, sincere and steadfast, happy and hopeful. When life's way was dark, he was its light. His days were filled with love and labor for home, for school, and for town; and home and school and town will mourn for him. His was not an occupation; the academy was his life. The field of his teachings was a realm of exactitude, undeviating precision, inevitable results; yet his path lay through the flowering fields of God's good world. We could not fail to shrink in shame and self-rebuke, as we looked upon the

Loyalty and devotion such as his are rarely found even among men of his own profession where qualities of this kind so often find their finest expression. Administrations might, and indeed did, change during his long term of service, but his unswerving fidelity to his task, to the school he loved, and to the boys of whom he was always at heart one, never varied. The love and affection he inspired in the hearts of his own pupils and countless others who did not happen to meet him in the class room can only be regarded as unique. One came to take it for granted as one met old Andover boys in various parts of the world, that their first inquiry would be, "How's Mac?" And to these, as well as to us, the void that has suddenly come into our lives can never be adequately filled. We shall miss the familiar face and figure, the rare humor that has so often helped ease the load, the friendly and sunny smile, and the helpful and uplifting influence of a Christian gentleman. But we cannot and we would not lose the lasting impress on the school and on us of that radiant and joyous nature, the mere contact with which brought

Baker farm. He was a master workman in the woods, and few could equal him in the appearance of the piles of wood which resulted from his skilled handiwork.

Even those of us who have been well taken care of on the wood question might be pardoned a stab of envy on looking into the Baker's carriage house to see it full of dry wood split so exactly and piled so neatly.

He was very much interested in the trains which he saw daily. He knew the engine numbers, recognized the trains of the Eastern Division when on account of some accident, they were sent over the Western Division, and could tell all the stops of a train from Boston to California. He was the Weather Bureau of the "Happy Hollow" neighborhood. With three thermometers, two on different sides of the house, and one at the back of the barn, we referred all questions of temperature, summer or winter to him. He was weather wise and flags on tall poles told him when in the woods away from the home weather vane where "sits the wind."

A great reader, he was seldom in leisure hours without a book or paper.

Few of us saw him on his early morning walks in search of the mushroom in its season, but we shall all miss him on his daily evening walk in summer through the orchard, across the railroad track, and into the fields beyond.

Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, old and new neighbors wended their way to the Baker Homestead to take part in the fitting service conducted by the Rev. E. Victor Bigelow. The following poem, read by Mr. Bigelow, seemed to all present, strangely appropriate and beautiful:

He does well who does his best
Is he weary? Let him rest.
Brother! I have done my best.
I am weary, let me rest.
After toiling oft in vain
Baffled, yet to struggle fain,
After toiling long to gain
Little good, with weary pain
Let me rest. But lay me low
Where the hedge-side roses grow
Where the winds a-maying go
Where the foot-path rustics plod
Where the breeze-bowed poplars nod
Where the old woods worship God
Where his pencil paints the sod:
Where the wedded thrush sings,
Where the young bird tries his wings,
When at times the tempests roar
Shaking distant seas and shore,
To be heard by me no more!
There beneath the breezy crest
Tried and thankful let me rest
Like a child that sleepeth best
On its mother's gentle breast.

The body was placed temporarily in the tomb in the West Parish cemetery and in the spring will rest in the George F. Baker lot in the South church cemetery with the family for whom he "did

Dying Plants

Careful observation has shown that plants pass through a death spasm at the instant which they cease to live. A delicate apparatus has been devised which enables one to watch this moment. All sorts of plants have been observed. It is found that the petals of a marigold constantly move up and down at the moment it dies. Some of the large garden daisies fold up their petals, while others curl them downward. In some cases the petals are convulsed and tremble violently. The water in the stalks of flowers is often suddenly thrown out by the contraction of the plant when it dies. It is also found that a plant when dying fails to give any electrical response at the moment of the death spasm.—Boys' Life for February.

Washington's inauguration as the First Chief Executive

George Washington was inaugurated first President of the United States April 30, 1789, in New York city, which at that time was the federal capital. During the ceremonies, the chancellor administered the oath with great deliberation and emphasis, after which Washington bowed down, raised the Bible, kissed it and exclaimed with closed eyes and much devotion: "I swear: so help me God!" Thereupon the chancellor declared, "It is done," and turning to the crowd exclaimed: "Long live George Washington, President of the United States!" The last named declaration on the part of the chancellor was in imitation of monarchical custom. The error of this practice was, however, soon exposed and abandoned, but at the time the crowd thought of nothing but the exciting solemnity of the scene, and many who demonstratively waved their hats were too overcome by emotion to join in the hurrahs.

Lesson in Honors to Founders of Nation

It is always fitting that Washington's birthday should be made a special occasion for impressing on all just what his achievements and those of his associates who established the government of the United States and founded a nation really mean. While there has never been any lack of enthusiasm over the man who was first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen, it is well that the full significance of what clusters about the name and fame of Washington shall be set out beyond all peradventure.

It is not only the uninformed alien who fails to understand our debt to the past, so, despite the highly intelligent and intensive efforts of the public schools to deal with Washington as the great national hero, the extraordinary nature of the government of a people and by a people and for a people which his efforts set up cannot be too emphatically described, since we all tend to get rusty on historic facts, and altogether too many forget that blatant idealistic reformers the world over today are claiming as freshly discovered panaceas some of the simplest practices laid down by the forefathers in the Mayflower again in 1776, and finally in the Constitution of 1787. That the forefathers, with Washington and Jefferson and Lee in the lead in the constructive period of the Revolution, proved to be practical men, as well as idealists believing in certain great principles that lie at the base of human freedom, and established human liberty under conditions that protected each from the other, obliterating class distinctions, is not the least thing to their credit.

As pulpit and platform draw the lessons from what the past affords in the way of men and principles as exemplars for all time, it will be the part of wisdom if the simple, undisputed facts as to what this great experiment did set out to do and has accomplished be brought home to all. For after all, it is the overwhelming realities of a free government maintained by a free people that gives the luster to the name of Washington as the father and founder and justifies all that the most extravagant eulogies may pronounce as to his claims to an affectionate immortality.

His Fondness for Children.
While Washington had no children of his own, he was blessed with many nephews and nieces, who, looking up to him as the head of the family, received many favors from his hand. His sister Betty, Mrs. Fielding Lewis had several boys, Washington, was nineteen, standing godfather to the eldest. Two of her boys, Howell and Lawrence, made their home with their famous uncle at Mount Vernon at different times. Another nephew, Bushrod, a son of Washington's brother, John Augustine, was an especial favorite. His career as a lawyer was helped by Washington, who followed it with the greatest pride and interest, and frequently consulted him on legal matters. The Mount Vernon mansion, its library and private papers and 4,000 acres were left to this nephew.

Spirit That Won Freedom.
Let's try to learn, above everything else, how to fight, be beaten, fight again, and keep at it until at last we win.—George Washington.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

"First in war and first in peace"—
"With love we speak of him again
Whose praises with the years increase—
"And first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Remarkable Honors Paid Washington on His Inaugural Trip

At the time he was unanimously elected President, Washington was the idol of his country, and his name and fame were known to the entire civilized world. His trip from his beautiful home on the Potomac was interrupted by receptions, fetes, addresses and dinners. Every person who was able to reach the roads along which he was to pass, or the cities selected as stations on his slow journey northward, joined the throngs that made his trip the most triumphant procession this continent had witnessed. To those thousands who lined the roads from Virginia to New York, the great, serious figure of the "Father of his Country" was the center of all their national hopes.

On April 6, 1789, both houses of congress met in New York city, at the time the capital, and elected George Washington President of the United States. No other name had been proposed. For Vice President there were eleven nominations. John Adams receiving the highest vote—thirty-four—was announced elected. Washington received sixty-nine votes. As soon as it could be arranged, Charles Thomson, secretary of congress, was dispatched to Mount Vernon to apprise General Washington of his election. Thomson, who had been secretary of the continental congress, reached Washington's home on April 14, between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning. The master of Mount Vernon was making his usual tour of his farms and Mrs. Washington entertained the messenger of the congress.

Before sunrise on the morning of April 16 a messenger had come from Alexandria with an invitation to a public dinner there, and in his diary for the day Washington wrote:

"About 10 o'clock I bade adieu to Mount Vernon, to private life, and to domestic felicity, and with a mind oppressed with more anxious and painful sensations than I have words to express, set out for New York, in company with Mr. Thomson and Colonel Humphreys, with the best disposition to render service to my country in obedience to its call, but with less hope of answering its expectations."

Of Washington's reception in Philadelphia a chronicler of the day wrote:

Old City Tavern, Philadelphia.

"Thousands of freemen, whose hearts burned with patriotic fire, fell into the ranks almost every square we marched, until the column swelled beyond credibility itself and, having conducted the man of our hearts to the City Tavern; he was introduced to a very grand and plentiful banquet, which was prepared for him by the citizens. At dinner thirteen patriotic toasts were drunk."

The night of the 20th the President spent as the guest of Robert Morris, then one of the senators of Pennsylvania, and better known as the financial genius of the country, having founded its first bank and financed the cause of liberty at a time when the outlook was chilling.

The trip through New Jersey was continued through Princeton, New Brunswick and Elizabeth, where Washington boarded a barge and was rowed to New York. Flags and floral decorations marked each step; everywhere he went Washington heard shouts for a conqueror's ears. He was hailed as a deliverer and acclaimed as a deity, but throughout all the heart-felt adulation paid him by those who almost worshiped him, the greatness of the man was revealed by his artless modesty, his composure and his graceful, tactful acceptance of the honors paid him.

Washington arrived in Elizabeth on April 23, just a week from the day he set out from Mount Vernon. A "pious plot" was blowing from the party set out across Newark bay for New York. A barge, built for the purpose, and rowed by "twelve old captains of vessels who had retired from business," conveyed the President and party. The oarsmen wore white shirts adorned with ribbons. One after another vessels fell into line behind them and by the time they were nearing the Battery there was a small flotilla. Every ship and sloop bore a holiday appearance save one, a Spanish vessel. It was with some concern the committee noted its solemn aspect. They feared some discourtesy, but, as the barge approached, its captain gave a signal at which flags of all nations were burst into view, and from its battery a salute of thirteen guns was fired.

A large sloop joined the procession off Bedloe's Island, and as it neared the barge the party of ladies and gentlemen aboard her sang an "eloquent ode appropriate to the occasion and set to the music of 'God Save the King.'" The wharves from the Battery to Wall street ferry, where the landing was made, were filled with welcoming boats. Boudinot estimated their number as tens of thousands. The ferry stairs were carpeted and the railings covered with crimson hangings. The President, preceded by the committee, was received on the landing by Governor Clinton and some of the foremost citizens. The streets were so blocked with eager citizens that it was half an hour before the committee could fulfill its commission by escorting their eminent charge to the house prepared for his reception.

Washington Resigning Command of the Army

December 23, 1783, George Washington resigned his commission as commander in chief of the army, and retired to private life. During the five years following the close of his military career he found sufficient occupation in attending to the affairs of his homestead and property and in fostering the progress of his native state. He greatly helped, by his correspondence, to bring the leading men of the country to a determination to form a more perfect union. He was president of the Philadelphia convention of 1787, which framed the Constitution of the United States. Washington was unanimously chosen the first President of the United States, and on April 30, 1789, took the oath of office in New York, where congress was then sitting. At the close of his term of office he was re-elected unanimously, and on March 4, 1793, took the oath of office for the second time.

Washington Type of Highest Citizenship

In the formal observance of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, it is well to pause to reflect upon the character of the man to whom the American people owe the utmost debt of gratitude. His services were rendered in the supreme hour of trial and in the dark days of national birth. As soldier and as statesman Washington stood supremely the leader of the people.

Putting aside all speculation as to what Washington would have done in this or in that specific situation of modern days, it can and should always be borne in mind that he would assuredly have been for a strong government, for the highest type of citizenship, for a devotion to a single allegiance, and for the broadest possible spread of education. He could not have favored or fostered a spirit of revolt against the established institutions, save by the legal and definitely appointed means. He had rebelled against the tyranny of British rule. He had led the American colonists into a victorious independence. But he could never have sustained a movement of mere dissent, conducted outside the pale of law or employing the weapons of sedition.

George Washington was a patriot in the truest sense, true to his convictions, true to the institutions that had been set up here in substitution for the colonial administration which offended the sense of justice even of Britons of that day. He guided the new government capably, without a chart, finding the way carefully and sagaciously. He felt that though this new government had been set up in revolt, it must be conducted in a spirit of universal acceptance by the people of the principles that had been adopted as its foundation.

There is no support for the radicals of today in the fact that George Washington was a rebel against the rule of King George. His example will never serve to justify sedition or intrigue or selfish class alignments seeking to overturn that which has been reared through nearly a century and a half of painstaking, consistent development based upon the principle of the general welfare and the co-operation of all the people.

WASHINGTON IN PRIVATE LIFE

Gladly Gave Up High Estate for the More Tranquil Pleasures of Mount Vernon.

Returning to Mount Vernon after the surrender of Cornwallis, George Washington wrote to Lafayette: "I have become a private citizen on the banks of the Potomac in the shadow of my own vine and my own fig tree, free from the bustle of camp, and the busy scenes of public life. I am solacing myself with those tranquil enjoyments, of which the soldier, who is ever in pursuit of fame—the statesman, whose watchful days and sleepless nights are spent in devising schemes to promote the welfare of his own, perhaps the ruin of other countries, as if the globe was insufficient for us all, and the courtier, who is always watching the countenance of his prince in the hopes of catching a gracious smile—can have very little conception. I have not only retired from all public employment, but am retreating within myself, and shall be able to view the solitary walk, with heartfelt satisfaction. Envious of none, I am determined to be pleased with all, and this, my dear friend, being the order of my march, I will move gently down the stream of life."

Washington Shaft Country's Tribute to Her Great Son

The two great monuments in the United States, of the many hundreds that have been erected in all parts of our country, are the Bunker Hill monument, in Boston, dedicated in 1843, a shaft to commemorate the beginning of our fight for independence, and the Washington monument, at Washington, erected to the memory of him who had been most instrumental in bringing about the result.

For 30 years after Washington's death the project was, every now and then, suggested, but nothing definite happened until September, 1833, when the Washington National Monument society was formed, with Chief Justice John Marshall, then 73 years old, as president. It was not until three years later that advertisements were inserted inviting designs from American artists.

An effort was made to secure the funds by popular subscription and by 1847 $87,000 was in hand and preparation for construction was begun. Congress, by resolution, granted a site where the monument now stands and the cornerstone was laid on the Fourth of July, 1848, in the presence of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government, foreign ministers and officers and a vast concourse of citizens from all parts of the Union.

The work of erection progressed steadily until 1854, when the shaft had reached a height of 156 feet and had cost $300,000. The treasury of the society now being exhausted, a memorial was presented to congress asking it to take action in the matter. Politics in the government prevented a ready response and it was not until 1857 that the society was given a formal charter.

The Washington monument was finally finished in the winter of 1884-85, and it was decided to dedicate it upon the anniversary of the birth of the man to whom it had been erected. Consequently, on February 22, 1885, there were impressive ceremonies at the national capital, when the monument was turned over to the nation.

The formal presentation of the monument was made at the base of the grand obelisk, but owing to the raw, cold weather that existed the dedication ceremonies proper took place in the hall of the house of representatives.

TO HEAD NEW YORK BANK

Mr. Goodhue was a member which went to Europe after the war.

The bank will devote itself primarily to financing America's foreign commerce and world trade. It will exercise this function mainly by the granting of acceptance credits.

It will operate under the provisions of section twenty-five of the Federal Reserve Act and will be organized as a New York corporation, subject to the regulations and supervisions of the Federal Reserve board and the banking department of the State of New York.

Instead of attempting to establish foreign branches, the new bank has sought and obtained the co-operation and support of some of the oldest and best established banks and banking firms in Europe.

It is expected that the bank will open for business about April 1st at 31 Pine street, New York.

It will be the second bank of its kind, the first having been the French-American, doing business now for about eighteen months, but the new bank will have a far wider field. F. Abbot Goodhue said: "Prior to the passage of the federal reserve act, such an undertaking as this was forbidden to banks in this country. It has always been possible, of course, to do business through correspondents, but now these British, Dutch, Swiss and Swedish banks are our co-partners, having put their money in, and with as keen an interest as we, there will be complete unity, and the closest co-operation. It has not been easy to obtain Americans of banking ability and standing to consent to live abroad. I believe we are now on the threshold of a new era of international banking relations."

The bank will in no way compete with the $100,000,000 Foreign Trade Finance Corporation, now in process of organization. The latter contemplates the issue of debentures, which under the rules of the federal reserve board and the so-called Edge act, precludes them from doing at the same time, a general acceptance business while the International Acceptance Bank, Inc., as its name implies, primarily will do its business by the granting of acceptance credits, and has no power to issue debentures.

"Acceptance" is not a familiar word, outside the banking world, and in this country is comparatively a new term. It may be defined as: The obligation of a bank, arising from the export or import of merchandise; in other words, a credit instrument for the financing of exports and imports. It is based on letters of credit, sight drafts, bills of lading and insurance guarantees. Today the obligations of Argentine merchants, as well as those of the old world, are being bought and sold through Boston banks, months before goods are landed.

The new president, who now makes his home in Brookline, spent the early part of his life in Andover and lived with his parents on School street. He attended Phillips academy and graduated with the class of 1902. At Phillips he was undergraduate treasurer and manager of the football team and held a similar position at Harvard, graduating from that college in 1906.

He entered the banking business and promotion came rapidly. When he was appointed president of the Brookline National Bank he was the youngest bank president in the country. Later he entered the First National Bank of Boston, and was made its vice president. Before the war, when the bank decided upon investigation of the possibilities of American banking in South America, Mr. Goodhue was elected to make the investigation and as a result a banking house was established by Mr. Goodhue for the First National Bank in Buenos Aires. He returned to the United States and when the war ended, was sent to Europe as a member of the special commission to investigate international credits. In addition to heading the new company as its active president, he will retain his affiliation with the First National as a director.

Sauce for Goose and Gander

Mr. L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad Company, has made to the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York one of the most interesting of recent proposals for the regulation of industrial relations, and one the justice of which it will be difficult to dispute. It is in brief that organizations of workmen shall be placed on an exact equality with organizations of capitalists.

Organizations having for their purpose the employment of men, the fixing and payment of wages, and the fixing and collection of fares and freight rates on public transportation lines, are charged with a public interest and are properly held subject to public supervision and regulation. Mr. Loree suggests that similar supervision and regulation, for the same cause, be had over organizations having for their purpose the control of wages or conditions of employment on these same public utilities; so that the Railroad Brotherhoods and the Railroad Companies shall be equals.

At present the railroad companies and other corporations have the capacity to hold property and to sue and be sued in their corporate names. Mr. Loree would have the same conditions applied to labor organizations. At present the acts and records of railway and other corporations are subject to public supervision. Mr. Loree would have the acts and records of labor organizations similarly supervised.

Finally, seeing that not only public elections, but also the primary elections of political parties, and, indeed, the elections of corporations, are subject to supervision and regulation by the public authorities, Mr. Loree would have such supervision extended to every vote taken by a labor organization on the question of ordering a strike; such a vote to be taken only after a summary inquiry by public authorities concerning the matters in dispute.

His plan would invest labor corporations with the same rights and powers that business corporations now enjoy, and would impose upon them the same responsibilities. It would be an application to industrial affairs of the old saying that "what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." It would require more ingenuity than we expect to see exercised or developed to disprove its justice and its conspicuous fitness for a republican country.—Harvey's Weekly.

The Passing of the Cat Hole

Do any New England country readers remember the institution of the cat-hole in the kitchen outer door? The Nomad remembers the kitchen door a round hole, of a size to allow a cat's body to pass through. On the outside of this door was a thin board, suspended by a leather strap. A cat on the inside of the door could push this board aside merely by bumping against it, and pass out, but she could not get back in again the same way, because the board would have to be held at one side in order to let her pass through. In other words, the board and the hole acted as a valve, or as a turnstile, permitting passage in one direction but preventing it in the other. The house cat could go out at any time, but had to have permission to come in. The Nomad is aware that this cat-hole was a common institution many years ago, but it is certainly many years now since he has seen one. He wonders whether the cat-holes went out of use because the cat, as time went on, acquired the trick of getting in through the valve as well as out. There may have been some individual who would have mastered that—putting the shingle at one side with one paw, and then making a swift leap through the hole. But though he has seen the cat-hole used as an exit by cats, he never knew of a case where the cat employed it as an entrance without assistance.—The Nomad.

If the nation heeds the plea of the President-elect for plain living, square dealing, sanity, common sense and co-operation, Harding times will not be hard times.—Providence Journal.

Winter Beauty in Plants

It is said that Agassiz would spend a most happy half hour examining a clam shell. To many people the leafless trees and shrubs are just as lifeless as a clam shell, and inspire about as much interest. It is merely a degree of education; of having one's attention directed to the truly beautiful features that abound both in the shell and in the dormant plant. The contour of a tree crown, the characteristic habit of branching, these branches dividing and subdividing — all these, brought out in silhouette against the sky, nevertheless have their charming features.

What is prettier than a shrub or group of shrubs whose twigs are incased in ice from a recent sleet storm, — perhaps on another morning to see these same branchlets feathered over with sparkling frost crystals, — a very home of fairs. Nor is their beauty confined to forms.

that require the touches of ice or snow or frost to enhance. A minute examination of the tiny twigs will reveal beauties not realized. The regular arrangement of the buds, set in a definite place on the twig, appeals to one's sense and belief in purpose in all things.

A study of the buds themselves reveals that on one plant they are very small and round; on another they are egg-form and large; and on another, long and slender. On one plant they are smooth and glossy; on another they are covered with a waterproof waxed gum; and another has them clothed in the finest silky fur, — all provisions for protecting the tender interior from the death-dealing elements without.

Beneath each bud lies the scar left by the fall of the leaf. These scars are of innumerable forms and patterns and marked with characteristic dots on their surface. For the most part, twigs appear to be of a dingy dark gray or brown. A close examination shows them to be of most delicate tones of red, yellow, green or purple, or a combination of these. Some, however, have brilliantly colored twigs. A little observation will open up a new world to the observer. — C. H. Thompson in Massachusetts Extension Service News.

Order Seeds Now

January is the proper time to begin making plans for the flower garden. There is not much that can be done outdoors at this season of the year, so that garden planning may be made a pleasant and profitable occupation. The new catalogues which are coming in now, serve to arouse and stimulate interest, sometimes to such a high degree that the flower lover would like to purchase a packet of every kind of seed offered. Why not begin now to plan your garden and make up your seed order accordingly? The seedsman will appreciate receiving your order early; he can give it more careful attention and will more likely be able to supply you with what you have ordered. — C. L. JOHN D. BLACKSHAW

ANDOVER, MASS.

Mr. Picard in her story of the first treaty between France and American which formed a part of the program for the French afternoon at the November club said that she would not presume to tell her audience much about the part Benjamin Franklin, with his simple manners and genuine kindness, had played in making the American cause popular in Paris, but that as a girl in school she had been told an anecdote which she found was not well known in America.

Boston, they told her was a very cold place and having lived there all last winter she was sure she had been correctly informed. Benjamin Franklin, as a protection against this penetrating cold said to have worn layers of newspaper between his garments adding to them as the severity of this cold increased and naming the layers A, B, C, D, E, F, etc.

One morning a friend meeting him on the street said, "It is very cold isn't it?" "Yes," said he, "it is F this morning."

An unusual sight in Andover square Thursday morning was a Belgian police dog hustling along with a rabbit dangling from his mouth. The rabbit looked very much the worse for wear but its captor wore a proud and happy look as he disappeared down Central street.

Plant Trees

"Trees can be planted on roadsides, village greens, city squares, play grounds, school grounds and other public places," writes A. C. Wessel in an article on "Forestry for Scouts" in the February issue of Boys' Life.

"The grove or woodlot, may be so open that the trees retain their limbs well down toward the ground, making it impossible to produce anything but knotty timber. It may be possible at times to thicken up the woodlot by underplanting or to change the condition to such an extent that self-seeding will be successful. The woodlot may be so dense that the trees crowd each other so severely that growth is checked and the trees do not develop. This struggle which causes the death of many young trees may be lessened in intensity to the great benefit of the woodlot by taking out enough trees so that those which are left will put on a much larger amount of wood.

"The composition and then the entire woodlot may be greatly improved and increased by simply taking out the so-called forest woods, such as ironwood, red maple, dogwood, junberry, hawthorn and others.

"White pine is best adapted for use on many thousands acres of non-agricultural land. It grows very rapidly and produces a valuable product. For these reasons the white pines of the country are worth at least an heroic effort to save them.

"The character of the fungus, namely, the fact that it must pass through an intermediate stage on an ultimate post, current or gooseberry offers the only chance of saving the white pine. If these posts can be eradicated over a sufficient area to prevent the dissemination of the spores from pine to currants and gooseberries, and from them back again to the pine, then a crop of pine timber can be procured."

To stimulate building in New Jersey, it has been decreed that dwelling houses erected between now and October 1, 1922, will be exempt from taxation for the next five years.

MARY E. WARD

Again the call to "Come up higher," comes to one of the Ward family. This time it was Mary E., wife of Richard A. Ward who heard the summons that meant for her a release from pain and suffering and for those who loved her a parting for awhile. A devoted wife and mother, a neighbor who was every ready to lend a helping hand and who having lent that helping hand forgot it and was ready to help the next one needing comfort or neighborly help. In the church of which she has been a member since her twelfth year she was ever a faithful worker. She will be missed by all.

She was born in September 5, 1852 her father being Moody B. Abbott and her mother Hannah V. Noyes, thus it will be seen that she descended from one of the old Abbott families. She has always lived in Andover and was educated in Andover public schools and the Pundard Free School.

Though she had not been well for some time it was not until a week ago that the illness became serious and it was decided that the only chance for life was an operation. She met the decision bravely with the full knowledge that it might not prove successful. The end came peacefully on Wednesday evening at the Lawrence General hospital. She is survived by her husband, Richard A. Ward, three children, Mrs. Leverett Putnam, Dora A., and Paul A., three grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Sarah M. Hardy of Boston.

Funeral services will be held at her late home on Lowell street, Saturday at 2.00 o'clock, Rev. Newman Matthews officiating. Burial will be in West Parish Cemetery.

JAMES WARREN FEENEY

James Warren Feeny, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Feeny of Holt road, passed away on Wednesday of this week at Littleton, Massachusetts.

He was born in Andover, June 17, 1895 and was educated in the public schools, entering Phillips academy with the class of 1913. During the years in the preparatory school he not only maintained a high grade of scholarship, but was prominent in athletics, being a member of the track squad, the soccer team and the varsity cross-country team. Honors which he won at Phillips were the Dove and Valpey prizes in Latin composition and the P. A. '94-Harvard '98 prize of $200 for excellence in scholarship combined with distinguished qualities of leadership. He was a Means prize speaker in 1911 and 1912, vice president and president of the Philo Debating club and class orator.

At Harvard college he also excelled in scholarship and continued his interest in athletics being a member of the varsity relay team. He was a member of Theta Delta Chi, Iota Club, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Institute of 1770 at Harvard.

At the outbreak of the war he went to the first Plattsburg camp in April of 1917, having a short furlough to deliver the Class Day oration at the Harvard commencement of that year. With a commission of second lieutenant he went to Camp Devens and was soon transferred to Washington where he had charge of motor transportation and was promoted to the rank of first lieutenant. His next move was to Camp Custer, Michigan where he was made a captain, and was athletic instructor for the 14th Division.

After his honorable discharge from the service in January 1919 he entered the employ of the White Motor Car Company in Cleveland, Ohio, by whom he was employed until his health failed.

He went to Saranac in December of 1919 in a vain effort to combat the disease which proved fatal on Wednesday of this week.

September 6, 1918 he was married to Miss Anne Powers, daughter of Major and Mrs. E. O. Hopkins of Washington, D. C., who with a nineteen-month-old son, James Warren Feeny, Jr., survive him. He is also survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Feeny and one brother Byron, all of Andover.

The funeral will probably be on Monday at Ayer with interment in Washington, D. C.

Faneuil hall market was also visited and after lunch the class visited Batchelder and Snyder's where Mr. Snyder gave a demonstration in meat cutting.

The visit was of great profit and pleasure to the party, the members of which were Misses Christina Perkins, Clara Biggar, Katherine Clinton, Mildred Buck, Gladys Bates, Grace Holland, Myrtle Disbrow, Rita Trow, Sarah MacCoubrie, Ruth Saunders, Pauline Sanderson, Marion Ladd, Dorothy Ryley, Alice Barrett, Edna Gates and Agnes Keery.

Diagnosis

The telephone rang and the bookkeeper answered it.

"Yes, madam, this is Wilkins' market."

"This is Mrs. Blank. I want you to know that the liver you sent me is most unsatisfactory. It is not calf's liver at all; calf's liver is tender and —"

"Just a moment, madam, and I'll call the proprietor."

"What is it?" Wilkins asked.

The bookkeeper surrendered the phone.

"Mrs. Blank," he said. "Liver complaint." — Boston Transcript.

Be Your Own Boss

In every kind of work in offices, in banks, in law, in medicine, in industries there are men and women who require supervision. They idle on the work; when the manager or boss is away they collect in groups and chat; they cannot be trusted to go on with the work unless the boss is supervising them. They have no special interest in anything except the clock.

The senior guild boys team will play the Monomac Mill team of Lawrence on the Guild floor, Saturday evening. The game is scheduled to begin at 7.45, dancing to follow.
